2. BIOMED CENTRAL TO LAUNCH NEW JOURNAL

Implementation Science will be an open access, peer-reviewed, online journal that will encompass all aspects of research relevant to the scientific study of methods to promote the uptake of research findings into routine healthcare in both clinical and policy contexts. If you would like to submit a manuscript to Implementation Science, please contact implementationscience.editors@ncl.ac.uk. For further information about the new journal, please go to the temporary information page.

3. GRADUATE STUDENTS SOUGHT FOR FUNDED RESEARCH PROJECT AT ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

We are seeking highly qualified new graduate students to join us in our 5-year NICHD funded research focusing on the early social foundations of school success and adaptation. We have funding for at least one or more graduate students who are interested in studying the social factors that affect young children's successful adjustment in preschool and early elementary school. In particular, we are interested in recruiting students who speak Spanish and can assist us in working with Latino children and families. Information about our research can be found at: <http://www.asu.edu/uss>. We are asking faculty to share this with potentially interested undergraduate or graduate students who are applying for graduate school in developmental psychology, child development, or related fields. Inquiries should be directed to Dr. Carol Martin, cmartin@asu.edu. Application deadline is January 15, 2006 for the fall 2006 semester. Application information is available at: <http://www.asu.edu/clas/fhd/fhdgraduate.htm>.
